Naming Rights Appeal 公開命名籌款

To benefit the new nursing home at
25 -27 Bushlands Ave, Gordon NSW 2072

Naming Rights Appeal

ANHF continues to embark on its mission of providing culturally appropriate care in Australia through the construction of a new residential aged care facility at Gordon. Nestled amongst trees in a quiet residential area in Northern Sydney, the new 84-bed nursing home will cater to the ever-increasing demand for Chinese-specific aged care in Sydney.

ANHF is offering the opportunity for generous donors to name a section of this new facility. The name will be prominently displayed on a special plaque at the selected location, and can be a meaningful and enduring gift to honour a loved one or organisation.

Introducing ANHF’s New Nursing Home

Residential Facilities

The facility will be divided into 4 wards, with 1 dementia ward on the lower ground floor, 2 general wards on the ground floor and 1 general ward on the first floor. Each ward will have 16 to 22 rooms. There are a total of 78 resident rooms, 6 of which will be twin bed room with ensuite; 64 will be single room with private ensuite and 8 will be single room with shared ensuite. Each ward will be equipped with its own nurse station, treatment room, dining area, servery and kitchenette, utility rooms. A number of lounges and leisure corners are spread throughout the facility for residents to receive guests and socialise outside of their own rooms.

Amenities

The new facility will have a 28-space basement car park with ambulance bay and accessible spaces. The basement will also house the main kitchen and store rooms. A set of lifts and staircases provide access from the basement to all floors of the facility.

An existing heritage-listed building at the front of the property will be transformed into an activity and administrative centre complete with two large activity halls, library, hair salon and physiotherapy room. The beautiful historical building is surrounded by its original garden and opens out onto a forecourt linking it to the main building.

The main building will house a large multipurpose function room with a stage area and projector for performances and activities. There will also be a separate gymnasium on the first floor where residents can exercise and maintain their fitness with the help of physiotherapy and lifestyle assistants.

The main garden near the back of the property will feature an impressive Chinese-style tea pavilion accessible by a covered walkway. This will allow residents to safely stroll through the garden and enjoy a cup of tea while appreciating their leafy surroundings. The dementia ward will have its own enclosed garden where residents can safely exercise and relax.
